

Dealer Room Rules for Further Confusion 2008

The Fur East

Following is a list of the rules and guidelines that each Dealer will be required to sign in acknowledgement and return prior to selling any goods at Further Confusion.

Further Confusion is an Anthropomorphic Convention intending to assist in educating and strengthening the bonds within the Furry Community. This convention is open to all individuals and age groups. With this in mind the following rules have been set in place to make Further Confusion a friendly convention, now and for years to come. As changes in our society may make it necessary for these rules to be updated due to changing circumstances or requirements of law, we will place the latest, most up-to-date version on our website. Updated versions will be presented to you at the convention to read and sign when you claim your table. Please read it carefully. Changes made to this document since Further Confusion 2007 are in italics.

Please be aware, due to the requirements of the California State Board of Equalization, you MUST be at least 18 years of age to have a Dealer Table.

Merchandise Awareness:

1. Keep all merchandise and displays (literature, art, fanzines, posters, electronic media, etc.) in compliance with the California State rules of viewing by minors. In simpler terms, all material in the Dealer Room must NOT be accessible to minors if they contain any content of an extremely violent and/or sexually explicit nature. This means kept in a closed binder/folder marked as adult. Adult art in progress must be as concealed as possible from public view. Occasional sweeps of the Dealer Room will be made to assure compliance.

You must monitor any 'closed binder/folder marked as adult' material with great vigilance. Be aware of the persons behind the persons browsing your adult binders, and ensure that the contents are not being observed by possible minors.

If this level of vigilance is not feasible, then you must cover those parts of the pictures within the binder with some manner of censorship materials. This can be as simple as labels applied to the plastic coverings containing the art, or as complex as special 'censored editions' of the art meant for display rather than for direct sale.

If you are selling adult comic books, you must contain even display copies in sealed comic bags. If the cover is in any way explicit, you must obscure those parts that are considered to be for adult eyes only.

We suggests (but do not require) that work on adult commissions should be done in a more private space than the Dealer Room. If you DO work on these in the Dealer Room, we strongly urge some form of 'screen' or similar contrivance. Such screens are often sold for use by 'game masters' running pen and paper role-playing games or can otherwise be cobbled together with a few good pieces of cardboard and some tape.

The Dealer Room staff will attempt to alert you if materials placed on display do not do enough to protect the sensibilities of the young (and their parents), but it is your responsibility to ensure you comply with the law. Any failure may result in the material being confiscated until the close of that day's sales for minor infractions, or in the offending dealer being asked to leave the Dealer Room for the day, or possibly the remainder of the convention, for repeat or more serious infractions. Dealer Room staff must protect the convention from potential legal action.

2. No annoying or distracting displays or effects. Lighting in the Dealer Room should be sufficient for viewing of all materials. Please check with the Dealer Room manager if you are unsure. It is also wise to check with the dealers seated around you. And if one of the dealers near your table has something that you feel fits under this heading during the convention, please bring it to the attention of the Dealer Room manager. But first, try asking the offending party, politely, to discontinue use of the distracting display or effect.
3. No pirated materials are allowed in the Dealer Room. No exceptions. Reproductions of commercial media such as Disney, Warner Brothers, or any other materials that violate copyright laws will not be allowed. All materials must be either owned by the dealer or approved for sale by the owner. Compilations of art must have the approval of the originating artists; publications where artists have previously approved their art are the exception (such as is common for most fanzines such as Yarf! and Fur Visions).
4. The selling of weaponry or potentially dangerous items are allowed within the guidelines of California State law. All responsibility for injury due to the handling of such items is the sole responsibility of the dealer. All items of this nature MUST be wrapped in a protective manner at the time of sale. Said items must be removed directly from the Dealer Room and public areas to a private room, vehicle or location outside the Double Tree property.

Behavior in the Dealer Room:

1. Shared tables are allowed in the Further Confusion Dealer Room. However, legally speaking, the person that paid for the table and is signing the paperwork for the table, is responsible for all debts incurred at that table. So make sure to make arrangements with anyone you share your table with regarding collecting sales taxes and the like.
2. All dealers must wear their registration badges at all times while in the Dealer Room. ONLY those persons with a dealer badge or a Dealers Assistant Tag may be seated behind a dealer's table. Each dealer may request up to two (2) Dealers Assistant Tags per table. (Half table dealerships only get one (1) Dealers Assistant Tag) Dealers Assistant Tags are NOT membership badges, they are only a sign of 'blessing' for the person to get in and out of the room during setup and teardown and to be allowed to sit behind the table. Assistants are required to also have convention memberships.

In addition, SPACE BEHIND THE TABLES IS LIMITED! Please use common sense and be considerate of your neighbors and the other dealers around you. Keep personal clutter to a minimum. If possible, store your stock UNDER your table or UNDER your chair. People need to be able to move around behind the tables safely.

USE THE TRASH RECEPTICLES AROUND THE ROOM, and do not just toss your trash onto the floor. We do not want to have to start increasing the cost of tables to be able to pay for the rug to be scrubbed.

3. All Dealers must be selling under a current California State Sellers Permit with a valid Seller's Permit (also known as a Sales Tax ID) number. There will be absolutely NO exceptions to this rule. You will be required to provide this prior to selling any merchandise, including personal commissions, at Further Confusion. If you don't have a permit, you will not be able to sell and there will be no refund of your Dealer Room costs. It is your responsibility to take care of this detail.

Information on obtaining a California State Sellers Permit can be found on the web at <http://www.boe.ca.gov/info/reg.htm> or may be requested by calling the California State Board of Equalization at 1-800-400-7115. At the time of the writing of these rules, the form needed is form BOE-400 SPA. If you believe you are exempt from these rules, please review BOE Publication 61, available on the BOE website.

4. Please maintain a state of professionalism. Dress accordingly. Profanity, explicit postures and mannerisms are unacceptable, as is horseplay and harassment of anybody. No fighting. Any physical altercations will result in the immediate expulsion from the convention of those involved and the possible involvement of local authorities. Again, no refunds will be given.
5. Keep pathways clear. No materials are allowed beyond the front edge of each table. FLARE will be on site to assist in crowd control, please comply with any requests they may have. This means you may NOT sit on the 'front' or 'traffic' side of the table. You MUST sit BEHIND your table. No one is allowed to sit in the pathways, not even a customer.
6. The Dealer Room Manager and assistants reserve the right to deny service to anyone. If anyone is disruptive, flaunting the rules, harassing customers, dealers, staff, or the general public, and is not amenable to correction, action will occur. Complaints will be taken seriously. Severe actions can result in expulsion. Please be on your best behavior.
7. California prohibits smoking inside or near entrances to all public facilities. Ask a staff member upon arrival for the approved outdoor smoking areas.
8. Final authority for all decisions related to Dealer Room activities rests in the hands of the Dealer Room Manager. His decisions are final and subject to appeals only through the Business Director of the convention and the Convention Chair.

Refund Policy:

We no longer offer roll-overs of dealer memberships or tables to a following year. So if you can not attend the convention, please seek a refund as described below.

Your dealers table may NOT be resold by you to another party. The convention reserves the right to refuse a table to anyone for any reason. If you can not attend the convention, please use the process below and request a refund.

If, for any reason, you are not going to be able to make it to Further Confusion, you need to contact the dealer room staff by email to dealers@furtherconfusion.org or postal mail at Further Confusion, Attn: Dealer Room, 105 Serra Way #236, Milpitas CA 95035 and release the table back to us for resale. We will, in turn, refund you the full purchase price of your table and the primary membership that came with it.

If such notice is received by the dealer room staff prior to seven (7) days before the opening of the convention, then it will be a simple matter of us filing the paperwork and getting a check cut and sent out to you by postal mail. This usually takes around ten (10) days to process and get sent out. If it is going to take longer, you will be notified directly by the dealer room staff.

Refunds requested less than seven (7) days before the opening of the convention will require convention executive approval, and will likely have to wait until after the convention is over before the paperwork can be filed and the check cut, and may take up to 60 days depending on circumstances and timing.

Tables that remain unclaimed four (4) hours after the dealer room first opens to the public, without the dealer room staff having been contacted and made aware that the dealer will be late, will be considered a no-show, and the table will be offered to those persons in the Furry Market Place that might have an interest in moving into the main room. So, PLEASE, contact the dealer room staff via dealers@furtherconfusion.org or by the phone number you will receive with your dealers table confirmation to let us know if you are going to be late or not be able to attend at the last moment.

When you release your table and request a refund, that table gets placed in the pool of tables offered out to the Waiting List, so the earlier you know that you will not make it to the convention, the better for the people waiting out there for a chance to be in the room.

Waiting List:

When the Further Confusion Dealer Room is full, we maintain a Waiting List of those persons interested in a table should one become available. To get on this waiting list, check the Further Confusion website at www.furtherconfusion.org for the form in PDF format. Print it, fill it out, and send it in to get on the list, OR you can send in a self addressed, stamped envelope along with a note requesting a waiting list form, to Further Confusion, Attn: Dealer Room, 105 Serra Way #236, Milpitas CA 95035.

We generally start contacting people on the waiting list in August, at the earliest. And the most common time for people to cancel is in the month of December or even in the couple of weeks just before the convention. It never hurts to have a Waiting List form on file with us if the dealer room is sold out.

If we have more people on the waiting list at the time we start making offers of available tables, than the number of available tables, we will perform a selection from all the available names using a random drawing until all tables are sold.

If, when we reach the first day of the convention, and there are unsold tables remaining, they will first be offered to those in the Furry Market Place vendors for relocation, then if there is still no takers, to neighboring dealers to expand their space onto. (Or, at the dealer room manager's option, simply removed from the room to provide more elbow space for everyone.)

Thank you for your compliance. The updated (if necessary) version of this will be waiting for your signature when you check in for your table at the convention. We hope you have a fun and profitable experience.
